OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Bill proposes to enact the Microfinance Act with a view to Licence, Regulate, Monitor and Supervise microfinance business. It provides for different tiers of microfinance institutions and how they may transform from one tier to another. It also vests the Bank of Tanzania with the mandate to oversee the microfinance sub-sector, puts in place means for consumer protection and sharing of credit information through credit reference bureau.

The Bill is divided into Nine Parts.

Part I provides for preliminary provisions which include the title and commencement of the proposed Bill, application and interpretation clause.

Part II, among others, provides for the nature of microfinance business, classes (tiers) of microfinance service providers, governance of microfinance service providers, minimum capital requirements and criteria for transformation from one tier to another.

Part III provides for administrative provisions. It enumerates the powers and functions of the Bank of Tanzania to supervise and regulate the microfinance sub sector, delegation of such functions and powers to the Tanzania Cooperative Development Commission and the Local Government Authorities; and the role of the Minister to formulate policy and create an enabling policy environment and to make regulations to that effect.

Part IV is devoted to licensing and registration of microfinance service providers. It prohibits carrying out microfinance business without being licensed or registered. It puts in place procedures for application for a licence or registration of microfinance service providers including foreign owned microfinance service providers. It also provides for procedures of suspension, revocation and appeal.

Part V deals with management and supervision of microfinance service providers. It also caters for management of microfinance business, take over, permissible and prohibited activities and payment of dividends and interest. Furthermore, it also addresses preparation and audit of books of accounts, submission of periodic reports, inspection of microfinance business and the need to comply with Anti-Money Laundering Act, Cap 423.

Part VI is concerned with microfinance consumer protection. It puts in place consumer protection principles including vetting of standard contracts, full disclosure of relevant information on products and services provided, transparency on interest rates and other charges, methods for debt collection, recovery and attachment of debtors property.

Part VII provides for offences and penalties. It defines general penalties and compounding of offences.

Part VIII provides for general provisions. It deals with a register of microfinance service providers and the publication of names and addresses of microfinance service providers in the Gazette including those whose licenses or certificates have been revoked. It also provides for transitional provisions, local content matters including employment and training of Tanzanians and the powers of the Bank of Tanzania to make regulations under this Act.

Part IX provides for consequential amendments to various laws as a result of the enactment of the proposed Bill. It proposes to amend the long title and repeal some provisions of the Banking and Financial Institutions Act, Cap 342 of 2006 which cover saving and credit cooperative societies and schemes. The Bank of Tanzania Act, Cap.197 is also amended to empower the Bank to supervise and regulate microfinance business. It also proposes to amend the provisions of the Cooperative Societies Act, Cap 211 of 2013 to empower the Bank of Tanzania with the power to make regulations for saving and credit cooperative societies.
